Interesting Earth Day fact: It remained a grassroots affair for 20 years, before going global and spreading out to 140 countries in 1990. It's now celebrated in more than 190 countries, with an estimated 1 billion people the world over participating each year.

On the occasion of its 20th birthday in 1990, Earth Day's organizers decided the time had come to take the movement global— 200 million people in 141 countries participated. The impacts of that day were enormous: it kicked off massive initiatives to recycle and paved the way for the 1992 United Nations Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro.

How about some simple breakfast ideas to add to your collection of healthy recipes? Here is a new way to look at oats. Remember, whole grains are a great source of nutrition and have a much better holding power to last until lunch time than does a processed cold cereal.

by Linda Franklin

- Baked Oatmeal (serves 6)
- 4 c rolled oats
 - ¼ c liquid honey or maple syrup
 - 1 c chopped dates, or raisins
 - 2 c nut milk
 - 2 c finely diced apples
 - ¼ c oil
 - 1 c shredded coconut (optional)
 - ¾ t salt

Directions: Mix all ingredients in a large bowl, with 3 cups of boiling water. Pour into casserole dish. Bake at 375°F for 30 minutes. Serve almond milk, pear cream (Your Home in the Country, 267) or other favorite nut milk.

On the first day of first grade, I stood by the front door with butterflies in my stomach. I voiced my biggest concern to my mother: "How will I make friends?" Crouching in front of me, she handed me advice I carry with me to this day: "Be Switzerland." Be friends with everyone. Treat everyone equally and fairly. For all of my 20 years, I have lived by these words. Soon I will graduate and become a part of the real world. And on that first day, nervously facing new responsibilities, I know I will whisper two words to myself: "Be Switzerland."
